Bernadette Buxton writes 'Dear Parishioners, a big 'thank you' for the prayers & Masses offered for me. I broke my hip bone and femur before Christmas. Then I had a heart attack, a stroke, and finally a really bad kidney infection.

I had just undergone an operation at Papworth Hospital, and it was during this operation that the stroke occurred and I was paralysed down my left side. My daughter was with me and noticed my left foot starting to move. The doctor and nurse said it was a miracle. This had been given me by your prayers.

See what prayers can do! Please always pray for the Sick. I thank you all, and Fr. John, for your care and deep faith. Love to you all.'

'No! No! No!'

At the time of the recent death of Baroness Thatcher, we heard played numerous times on the radio the recording of her famous reaction in Parliament to a particular scheme for European integration : 'No!, No!, No!'. Whatever we may feel about her political views and actions, I think that many of us will admire her decisiveness. And decisiveness is certainly a characteristic which the Christian must seek to foster in his or her self. St. Paul says that we must not be 'Yes' and 'No' people, and the book of the Apocalypse says that we must not be 'neither hot nor cold' Christians. We can't afford to bargain with the devil, and God will not be satisfied with half (or less) of our allegiance and obedience. When we made, and when we renew, our Baptismal promises, we very firmly and decisively reject the devil and all his works, and then turn to God in a similarly decisive way.

Of course all of us find ourselves frequently under attack from the enemy. It is part of living a committed Christian life. All kinds of bad thoughts, desires, and intentions are inserted into our minds. And in the face of these attacks, we must be decisive. Sometimes, when bad thoughts come into my own mind, I find it helpful to say – sometimes out loud, if I'm on my own, - 'No!, No!, No!'. Actually giving voice to our opposition to temptation in this decisive way seems to be effective in seeing the devil off – at least until next time!

'Yes! Yes! Yes!'

We're now in Our Lady's month of May – the month of the year in which we seek to show her special honour and affection. And one of the principal lessons that Mary teaches us is about saying 'Yes!' to God in a wholehearted and decisive fashion. At the Annunciation, Mary said 'Yes' to God's invitation to be the Mother of the incarnate Christ. Maybe she had little idea of what this would involve. But with complete confidence and trust in the wisdom and goodness of God she agreed wholeheartedly to play her part in his plan. We are not always quite so ready to say 'Yes' to what God proposes for us. We hesitate and dissemble. We need to have the example of Mary before us. But then isn't it an essential part of the loving ministry of a Mother to give her children a lead and an example?
