

GOSPEL REFLECTION FOR THE FIFTH SUNDAY OF LENT

The Inwards Looking Glass

It's easy to list other people's faults; we do it all the time. But if we were to list our own faults, we could probably come up with only a few. We might be surprised and hurt to see ourselves as others see us. Obviously it is easier to see the faults of others because we are looking outwards at the world, but if we are to become good at forgiving others, we must first hold up an inwards looking glass to our own faults. Once we can see ourselves as needing God's forgiveness, it is so much easier for us to forgive others.

Today Jesus orders us to step away from our moral high ground. Are we really in any position to judge others? In today's reading, the Scribes and Pharisees, filled with self-righteous contempt, drag an adulteress before Jesus. She has been caught in the act and by the Law of Moses must be stoned. What does Jesus have to say on the matter? It's a trap of course! If Jesus is not seen to uphold the Law of Moses he will be accused of heresy. But Jesus tactically avoids any discussion on the law altogether by saying "Let the one among you who is without sin be the first to throw a stone...." One by one the crowd disperses. Then Jesus gives the woman God's forgiveness and tells her not to sin again.

We have a problem with forgiveness. When someone has hurt us, forgiveness is the last thing on our mind. We equate forgiveness with letting someone off the hook. Even when someone fully repents, we still imagine that only their punishment will make us feel any better. Somewhere deep down we still have a thirst for our human agenda for justice rather than God's. Similarly we have a problem with being forgiven. Has God really forgiven the sins of our past? Perhaps because we are so bad at giving out forgiveness ourselves, do we carry the sins of our past round like excess baggage, allowing shame to cloud our self-perception.

There are two challenges in today's gospel reading. The first is to accept that we are really forgiven by God and to feel the joy of going through life without the burden of our past. The second is to afford others their forgiveness. This doesn't have to mean letting our criminal element off the hook, but it does mean judging others through Jesus' eyes and administering justice with reconciliation and second chances in mind rather than punishment and revenge.

PARISH PRAYER - Father, pour out your Spirit upon our parish. Grant us a new vision of your glory, a new faithfulness to your Word, and a new consecration to your service; that your love might grow among us and your Kingdom come. Through Christ our Lord. Amen
